

Evil Dispositions Are Early Shown."

Just so evil in the blood comes out in shape of scrofula, pimples, etc., in children and young people. Taken in time it can be eradicated by using Hood's Sarsaparilla. In older people, the aftermath of irregular living shows itself in bilious conditions, a heavy head, a foul mouth, a general bad feeling.

It is the blood, the impure blood, friends, which is the real cause. Purify that with Hood's Sarsaparilla and happiness will reign in your family.

Blood Poison.—I lived in a bed of fire for years owing to blood poisoning that followed small pox. It broke out all over my body, itching intensely. Tried doctors and hospitals in vain. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped. I kept at it and was entirely cured. I could go on the houseboats and about about it. MRS. J. T. WILLIAMS, Carbondale, Pa.

Scrofula Sores.—My baby at two months had scrofula sores on cheek and arm. Local applications and physicians' medicine did little or no good. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him permanently. He is now four, with smooth fair skin. MRS. S. S. WYSON, Farmington, Del.

Domestic Animals Bring Infection.

Evidence that colds are infectious is furnished by what we observe among our domestic animals. Cats seem to be especially susceptible. Probably they often bring home from their nocturnal rambles those mysterious catarrhal attacks which so rapidly run through the house. It is an old saying: "The cat is sneezing, we shall all have colds." Sheep, too, are liable; a whole flock may suffer, and may show that curious eruption round the lips, which we all know only too well as one of the most unpleasant accompaniments of a bad cold in the head. On the Australian sheep runs, when the shearing season comes round, the men who congregate at the sheds are frequently smitten with an illness of a catarrhal nature, which rapidly takes hold of them, and often affects some ninety per cent. Sometimes it becomes very serious, and may even develop into a fatal pneumonia. To all appearance it is caught from the sheep. —The Spectator.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 29,662]

"Two years ago I was a great sufferer from womb trouble and profuse flowing each month, and tumors would form in the womb."

Another Tumor Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"The doctor said that all that could help me was to have an operation and have the womb removed, but I had heard of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine and decided to try it, and wrote for her advice, and after taking her Vegetable Compound the tumors were expelled and I began to get stronger right along, and am as well as ever before. Can truly say that I would never have gotten well had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound." —MARY A. STAHL, WATSONVILLE, PA.

What Mrs. Pinkham's Letter Did.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—After following the directions given in your kind letter for the treatment of leucorrhoea, I can say that I have been entirely cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and will gladly recommend them to my friends."

"Thanking you for your kindness, I am gratefully yours, A. B. DAVIDS, BINGHAMPTON, N. Y."

Remarkable War Widows.

One of the curiosities of the United States pension service is the astonishing survival of war widows. The report of the United States Commissioner of Pensions shows some remarkable and interesting facts in regard to the longevity of the widows of soldiers. For instance, while there is not a single soldier of the War of the Revolution alive to-day, there are, still surviving and drawing pensions twelve widows and daughters of soldiers of the Revolution. Of the War of 1812 there are only three soldiers still alive, but of their widows there are now surviving and drawing pensions the astonishing number of 2407.

The War of the Revolution closed in 1783 and a period of 115 years has elapsed, and, while there are no male survivors, there are still some of their widows alive. This state of affairs can only be possible on the ground that some of the soldiers, after they had attained old age, married young wives. The War of 1812-14 closed with the battle of New Orleans, on January 8, 1815, eighty-three years ago. Supposing that the youngest soldier were eighteen years old, a period of 101 years has elapsed since the birth of such soldiers. Evidently many of them, after they were old, married young women, so that, although all the men but three are dead, they have left behind more than 2000 widows.

By the same rule of procedure it is plain there will be widows of soldiers of the Civil War on the pension rolls in 1900, and even a few in the year A. D. 2000, more than a century hence, for if a soldier eighteen years old in 1861 should marry when he had reached the age of eighty years, in 1923, a girl sixteen years old, she might hope to live seventy-seven years longer, or to the age of ninety-three, which would bring her up to the year 2000.—New Orleans Picayune.

The Cost of Armies.

All the countries of Europe are spending on their armies and navies at the rate of nearly $50 a second, or the almost incredible sum of $4,000,000 a day.

France has a law forbidding the slaughter of birds smaller than larks. Nevertheless, piles of such birds are offered for sale in the markets of many French cities. A movement is now under way for enforcing the law and saving the song-birds and the fields, which, it is said, they keep free from injurious insects.

Pretty Underwear.
The variety of pretty silk and woolen underwear to be had at such reasonable prices, is very tempting to dainty women, yet many refrain from purchasing such on account of their inability to insure in laundering. If the work is properly done this trouble may be avoided. When ready to begin all a tub half full of warm water, in which dissolve a fourth of a bar of Ivory Soap, and wash the articles through it with the hands, rinse in warm water, and squeeze, but do not wring. Hang on the line and press while still damp. ELIZA R. PARKER.

A Twelve-Inch Wire-Wound Gun.

Our American cousins are not, our Plymouth correspondent says, apparently to enjoy a monopoly in the manufacture of man-killing weapons. Although it has been known for many months that the British Admiralty have introduced for the navy a new type of 12-inch breech-loading gun, few are aware of the enormous advantages the new weapon can claim over existing ordnance of the same calibre.

The new gun, which is to be known as the "Mark 8," is constructed of steel on the wire-wound principle, so that the liability to fracture is reduced to a minimum. Cordite charges only will be used, and a lengthy series of experiments have shown that a charge of 1674 pounds of cordite is sufficient to fire a projectile 850 pounds in weight a distance of ten thousand yards, whereas the existing 12-inch guns need a charge of 250 pounds of powder to fire a projectile weighing 712 pounds the same distance.

The new gun has also a greater destructive capacity, it having been found that its projectile will penetrate 21.1 inches of wrought iron at a distance of seventeen hundred yards, while the penetrating power of the 12-inch gun at the same distance is 19.4 inches. At shorter distances the differences in the destructive capacity is much more pronounced, the muzzle perforation of the new gun being 98.5 inches of iron, as against 26.7 inches in the case of the older type of weapon.

The first vessels to be armed with these guns will be the battle-ships Canopus at Portsmouth, Goliath at Chatham and Ocean at Devonport.—London Standard.

Engineers Tow a Queer Craft.

It has been stated that one of the leading qualities exhibited by electrical engineers during the war was readiness of resource. This is well illustrated in a story told by one of the officers of the corps, says the Boston Transcript. There was a good deal of uneasiness about that time around Boston, as no one knew but that the Spanish fleet and shells might be flying within twenty-four hours.

One Saturday morning orders came down to a squad of engineers to set up before night a complete isolated plant for searchlight work on one of the fortifications in the harbor.

The men in charge of getting the boiler down the bay could get no suitable lighter anywhere, so they simply plied the holes in the boiler, rolled it off the pier, hitched it to a tug, and towed it down the harbor, kept aloft by the air inside it. The men who had to take down the engine and dynamo managed to get their machines landed, but there they waited, with apparently no purpose of going further.

On the whole island there was only one truck strong enough to carry the machines from the dock to the fort, and that was in charge of an Irishman, in the employ of the city of Boston, who doggedly maintained that he took no orders except from the city officials, and the authority of the United States Government was nothing to him.

It was already late in the afternoon, and there was no possibility of reaching the office of the authorities in time to secure the permit. The men simply took the driver to their barracks, got him dead drunk and did their own driving. And the searchlight shone down the bay that night.

THE REALM OF FASHION.

New York City (Special).—Whoever made the foolish remark that shirt waists and separate waists were going out of fashion little knew how ing circular portions squarely shaped on the outer edge. The narrow front gore of the skirt is extended in a circular flounce, which is joined to the lower edge of the other four gores. The skirt fits the hips closely, small darts adjusting the fullness at the waist, and the flounce falls in stylish ripples to the foot, where it measures a little over four yards. Four rows of the frizzed ribbon are applied in evenly spaced rows at top of flounce and outlining each edge of front gore. Many combinations will be suggested by the mode, which may be all of one material if so desired, and trimmed with braid in various widths, gimp, folds of satin or silk, corded silk, ruchings or ribbon.

Cheviots For Skirts.

Some of the cheaper cheviots make excellent skirts, and having considerable body, they do not require much starch, and they are not unpleasantly slimy without any. They must be selected in suitable stripes.

The Rule In Dress.

Quiet, simple elegance expressed in soft neutral tints is the rule in dress. Pale gray, mastic, dark blue and black are the chic colors for gowns, and there is moderation in everything except elegance and expense.

To Be Slender the Fashion.

A great many women have cast one side their dainty corset cover of tucked lawn, lace insertion and edging. This is only one more evidence that women are using every means to make themselves look slender.

Serviceable and Becoming.

Camel's hair serge in a serviceable shade of tan is here becomingly associated with brown velvet in a pretty golden shade. The collar, shaped in pointed tabs, is edged with gilt cord, fronts and back are joined to the linings at square yoke depth, the lower edges being gathered and adjusted with slight blouse effect in front. A sensible the feminine population of this country is. No woman of sense and figure will give up that comfortable garment known as the separate waist until the municipal authorities pass some law absolutely prohibiting the wearing thereof. There are critics who say that women's figures have not been improved by wearing these loose garments. Certain it is that a small waist and a general cramped appearance is no longer fashionable; but, on the other hand, women have a smarter look and do not have the appearance of being simply advertisements for cheap corsets, as they did in the days when they laced themselves into waists of heavy material simply because it was the fashion to do so.

LADIES' WAIST.

LADIES' AFTERNOON TOILET.

This spring there will undoubtedly be more tight-fitting waists than have been the fashion for some years—waists that will match the skirts of the gowns which they are made to wear with; but to wear with the same gowns will be separate waists of silk, satin or wash material, and smart women who are coming home from Europe or who are ordering their spring costumes are bringing out any number of dainty and attractive waists suitable to wear with any kind of skirt.

To make this waist for a lady of medium size will require two yards of material forty-four inches wide. To make the skirt in the medium size will require five yards of material forty-four inches wide.

An Elegant Gown.

The Parisian model of the elegant gown, shown in the large engraving, was of handsome gray broadcloth, combined with black guipure over white satin, but brocade, velvet, silk or other fancy mixed goods may be effectively united with cloth, serge or other plain woolen fabrics in this style. The trimming is of half-inch-wide black satin ribbon gathered through the centre, and crystal buttons studded with jet decorate the waist and sleeves. The shaped girde is covered to match, the vest and front of shirt, and closes invisibly at left side. The waist is stylishly arranged over fitted linings that close in centre-front, the plastron vest portion being included in right shoulder seam and sewed permanently to lining, hooking over on left. The fronts are uniquely shaped in squares at the top and are arranged in two forward turning plaits at the lower edge, the trimming being gracefully brought down on the edge of each plait. The back linings are covered to yoke depth with the contrasting material, the shaping and trimming being arranged on the whole back to correspond with the fronts. The sleeves are fitted with upper and under linings, a puff being gathered over the top. The material portion is shaped at the top to harmonize with the fronts and back, and the trimming continued in evenly spaced rows to the wrists, where it is prettily slashed to expose the plisse of mouseline de soie. The neck is complete with a standing collar, surmounted by flared stylish accessory is the fanciful collar that covers the upper part of the waist with round yoke effect. A standing collar completes the neck, at the top of which is a soft ruching of chiffon. The two-seamed sleeves fit the arm closely, stylish gathered puffs being mounted over the tops. Bands of velvet decorate the arm just below the puffs and the wrists are completed to match. The full round skirt has a band of velvet ribbon topped by one of a narrow width placed above the hem. The top is gathered and sewed to the lower edge of the waist, a belt of velvet being applied over the gathers.

This pretty dress is suited to silk, woolen or cotton fabrics, stripes, checks or fancy mixtures making up satisfactorily in this style. One while on each tab is applied a cross design of long shaped topaz jewels. The waist is arranged over fitted body linings that close in centre back. The material may be used in place of the combination as here shown, the collar being trimmed with braid, ribbon, insertion or incrustations of lace.

To make this costume for a girl of eight years will require two and a half yards of material forty-four inches wide.

Ivory Soap, because of its purity, is especially valuable for bathing the skin of infants and very young children.

Particular care should be taken to wash the children's clothing in Ivory Soap. The garments will be whiter, cleaner and sweeter. The lather of "Ivory" is clean. There is no oil or grease in it.

The Dog Reporter.

Bob, a fox terrier that belongs to the chief of one of the Washington newspaper bureaus, is generally known along Newspaper Row as "the dog reporter." The correspondent of the Detroit News-Tribune tells why.

There are some sanctuaries that the ordinary reporter does not dare to enter, unless especially invited; not so with Bob. His nerve is supreme. He starts out each morning with great regularity to make the rounds of the Treasury Department, White House, and War, State and Navy Buildings, usually accompanying one of the reporters of the bureau. If they are behind time he goes on his own hook.

He is known in practically all the departments, and when he comes alone officials discreetly conceal all letters or other documents which may have news in them, because Bob will never leave an office without some tangible proof that he has called. A few weeks ago he was discovered by Secretary Gage calmly walking out of his office with a bundle of letters presented by a Western Congressman in behalf of a constituent who wanted a position. Bob was greatly aggrieved when the messenger forcibly relieved him of his "scoop."

Bob also frequently pays his respects to the President. Unlike most callers, Bob always sees the chief magistrate when the spirit moves him so to do, and incidentally, in his demonstrations of delight over a achievement, he paws the creases all out of the Presidential trousers.
